North-Eastern Namibia is a mosaic of woodlands, riverine forests, swamps and rivers. Off-the-beaten track destinations include the Nyae-Naye area, the ancestral home of the Ju/'hoansi San. Formerly known as Eastern Bushmanland, the area is four-by-four country.

The Khaudum Game Park, further north, is likewise only accessible by four-wheel drive vehicle. The park is home to herds of elephants, roan, eland, kudu, gemsbok (oryx), blue wildebeest, wild dog and lion.

The Mudumu and Mamili national parks in eastern Caprivi can, likewise only be explored in a four-wheel drive vehicle. Two destinations that are, however, accessible by sedan car are Popa Falls, a series of rapids in the Kavango River, and the nearby Mahangu Game Park. The park offers outstanding birding and is also renowned for its large numbers of elephant, red lechwe, sable, roan, buffalo, blue wildebeest and gemsbok.

Impalila Island, in the far northeast, is aptly described as "The One Island in Africa Where Four Countries Meet." The Zambezi River offers superb tiger fishing, while the island and surrounding area are also one of the top birding spots in Namibia.
